To Whom it may concern:

It has come to my attention that the Federal Communications Commission is drafting regulations to restrict person to person solicitations to residential homes.

As a licensed Realtor who engages in cold calling to promote my business I would request that you consider how this will effect the ability of persons in the Real Estate Field to make an income.

I have 3 children + also provide for a 20 year old Down Syndrome brother. Cold calling is essential to my ability to provide for my family.

Please consider all of the results of such an action.

Sincerely

Deborah Rettig, Realtor

Re: Docket No. 92-90; Telephone Consumer Protection
Act of 1991

Dear Secretary:

The opportunity to solicit person to person among residential homes is essential to my business. Please do not restrict my right to do so in any way.

Certainly, restricting my business and the business of 100,000 other realtors would not help our overall economic situation. Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Yours truly,

Tom Jordanow

P.S. While all realtors rely heavily on the telephone, my livelihood depends exclusively on being allowed to telephone.

Please note that we are totally against the Docket No.92-90, Telephone Consumer Protection Act of 1991. As you are aware, the Real Estate industry is in dire straights now and this regulation could bury us.

Crime is high and people are hesitant to open their doors. Telephone solicitation is an extremely important tool if we are to survive. Please put your efforts into regulations to improve our economy, not destroy it.

Dear Sirs/Madam:

We are writing to express our concerns about the legislation above that you are drafting.

As Realtors, the telephone is our most needed and most used tool. To restrict this by governing person-to-person solicitations would deal our industry a severe blow. We consider this a form of restraint of trade.

Telephoning is critical to our industry in general. But it is even more important to us here in Vermont where many of us do business over a wide geographic area. Often, most of it is in rural areas. In winter for example, we have very limited access to these areas and depend on the phone to an even greater extent.

Please consider all the ramifications of such legislation. We, as a real estate industry, do not support any form of such legislation which would severely curtail our ability to do business.

Sincerely,

Re: Telephone Consumer Protection Act of 1991

Dear Sirs:

It has come to my attention that the Federal Communications Commission is drafting a regulation to restrict person-to-person solicitations to residential homes. I am writing to let you know how important "cold calling" is to my business.

"Cold calling" is my way to reach the general public and let them know, adverse to what they are reading and hearing from the news media, that Real Estate is still one of the best investments they can make today. It is also a means to let the people know the market activity in their neighborhood, thereby continuing to keep real estate active, which definitely stimulates the economy.

We, in the Real Estate field, are very courteous in our calling. "Cold calling" is one of the most important aspects of our business. It would be devastating if this regulation were to pass.

Please give this careful consideration.

Sincerely,

Richard Fleet
